WE'RE HERE for you

It's hard to believe how much things have changed since our last edition of City Views. The impacts of COVID-19 have been wide ranging and even though it may seem like our lives have been on hold, the City has continued to plan for the future, and ensure essential services we rely on, continued to be delivered.

Whilst our facilities were closed, we used the time to bring forward important work. Preventative maintenance and small upgrades have been undertaken, at the City's various community facilities. For example, dado rails have been added to walls in high use buildings, shelving and increased storage for community groups at some facilities and repairs made to the well used dog park at John Dunn Oval.

As the City's ovals had a break from the pressures of organised sport over last few months, we took the opportunity to re-turf HARRISDALE Paying Field and Cross Park. Other ovals and parks are looking beautiful after being treated to fertiliser, top dressing and some extra attention over the quiet period.

Extensive cleaning has occurred in all of the City's buildings, so they were sparkling and clean and ready for use. Ongoing extra cleaning has been implemented in community buildings and perspex screens have been installed in customer service areas prior to opening, in order to keep everyone safe. The City will continue to follow the State Government's advice with regard to the numbers of people allowed in our facilities. You can stay up to date by checking the COVID-19 Information Hub on the City's website.

The City is also playing an active role in advocating for economic stimulus money from the Federal Government for local projects, as we see the awful impacts on our local economy and local jobs. We are working to engage local businesses and trades people, where possible, to fulfil contracts for works throughout the City. Also the City's 'Localised' platform will enable businesses to connect, share ideas and innovate. Importantly, these businesses will help contribute to the recovery of the local economy as we navigate our way through these tough times.

"While this period has been tough there are positives we can take from the situation...."

As restrictions ease, take a moment to think about the things you've done differently over the past few months, and what you'd like to retain in a post COVID life – things like: spending more time with your kids, reading books, walking in your local parks, riding your bike, using FaceTime to stay in touch with elderly friends and relatives. While this period has been tough, there are positives we can take from the situation.

Our community has done a tremendous job of containing COVID-19 and looking after one another during this difficult period, offering assistance to those who are doing it tough. We are lucky to live in a beautiful place, amongst generous and caring people. Please continue to be patient as we work through any teething problems and get used to social distancing protocols in community facilities.

Stay safe and

WE'RE HERE to lend a hand

The City partnered with Gwynne Park Primary School, before the return to school, to deliver school work packs to more than 2000 students in the Armadale area.

Gwynne Park Primary School Principal Sam Prodonovich along with Mayor Ruth Butterfield and Councillors Gary Smith and Kerry Busby and school staff delivered the packs to eager children.

The City donated stationery and activity packs as well as the provision of a City vehicle and a driver to support the school, in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic.

"The Council provided items including sports equipment, decks of cards, pencils, chalk and crayons and modelling clay which has gone to about 200-300 families and about 2000 kids in the Armadale area," said Gwynne Park Primary School Principal, Sam Prodonovich.

"We're really proud of how seriously our community has taken the government's advice."

Mayor Ruth Butterfield said she was always impressed by the community spirit shown by people in the City of Armadale.

"The work of Gwynne Park Primary School is a fantastic example of collaboration, where everyone has pulled together to make a real difference at this challenging time," said Mayor Butterfield.

"Our schools, students and their families are the grass roots of the City of Armadale community and we are delighted to provide support."

The City also partnered with Westfield Park, Challis, Neerigen, Willandra and Grovelands Primary Schools.

WE'RE LIVING THROUGH A HISTORIC MOMENT

2020 may be a year many will want to forget, but it's important we record our experiences during the pandemic for future generations to come.

The City's Library and Heritage Services team have been documenting events as they unfold, capturing history as it happens. Now we are asking you, our residents and businesses to help us record it.

Although it might not feel particularly historic right now, that doesn't mean we won't look back on this moment with great interest. Future generations will want to know more about this life changing pandemic and the details of people's emotions, thoughts and how they coped mentally, physically and financially.

RE-DEPLOYED WORKERS

hit the ground running

For casual worker Kira Digwood, the closure of the Armadale Fitness and Aquatic Centre in March was a bump in the road but it wasn't the final destination of her journey.

Kira is just one of many casual staff to be re-engaged in work within the City following the closure of AFAC and City Libraries, due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Employed with AFAC since 2017, she is currently completing her second year of a four year degree in Human Resources and Marketing at Curtin University.

In the aftermath of the closures, the City conducted a skills audit to determine where its casual workforce could be redirected to provide frontline support and keep essential services running.

"When we found out AFAC would be closing, our team leaders sent out a survey to determine what skills we have (outside of our existing jobs)," she said.

"I included in the survey that I'm studying human resources and marketing at uni and about my experience using Adobe applications. The City called within three days offering me a re-deployment opportunity within the Communications and Marketing Department."

The casual work has provided Kira with a continued routine and stability as she juggles a second university degree.

"I've been able to maintain a lot of my original routine through this deployment. Our team leaders are constantly in touch, checking in on the casual staff to see how we're going."

A number of the City's casual staff have been re-engaged in roles across a range of community services – including assisting with the increased need for food and care packages at the Champion Centre, through to delivering books and library assets to the elderly and vulnerable within our community.

She said the support from the City of Armadale and her colleagues had been overwhelming.

"When it was announced that we were closing the facility, you could see upper management were really upset by what had happened. It meant a lot to see that it wasn't just brushed aside.

"They're doing whatever they can to get us work."

#didyouknow WE'VE GONE DIGITAL?

BUILDING APPLICATIONS

Home improvements are popular at the moment and the City's Building Services team are keeping across the influx of applications, as building applications are now submitted electronically.

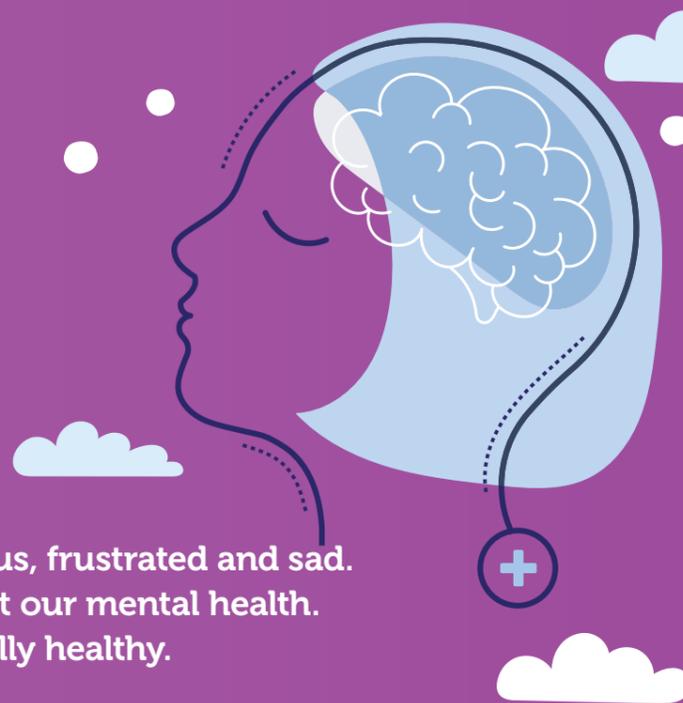

Applications for patios, sheds, garages and carports are up by 20.91% from 153 to 185 in comparison to the same period last year – we are now dealing with an average of 24 patio applications a month, compared to an average of 4 per month earlier this year.

To date, the average time-frame for a building application to be lodged, assessed and determined is 8 calendar days. This includes applications that are incomplete, where the team works with applicants to explain what additional information is required to ensure their application progresses. Over 500 applications have been received this year already – with 53% completed in three calendar days or less. Legislative time-frames for building applications are generally 10 business days for certified applications, or 25 for uncertified applications.

Lodgement of building applications via email building@armadale.wa.gov.au and related queries are closely monitored during business hours.

STAY MENTALLY HEALTHY.

It's common to feel overwhelmed, anxious, frustrated and sad. But, too much of these feelings can affect our mental health. Below are some ways we can stay mentally healthy.

MENTAL HEALTH TOOLKIT

Setting up a daily routine is important. Plan activities that are fun (such as reading, watching movies, hobbies) and that give you a sense of achievement (such as cleaning, completing work tasks, learning a new skill).

Below are some other ideas of how you can try and keep mentally healthy:

- Share something positive or funny on social media to brighten others' day.
- Listen to a podcast, TED Talk or your favourite music.
- Keeping your brain active is important. Learn something new like a language, recipe or meditation.
- Do something to self-care – run a bath, make yourself a cuppa and start a new book, or play your favourite game.
- Start a journal or take note of a few things you're grateful for each day.
- Play a board game or card game.
- Catch up on movies and TV shows.
- Check out the online resources from the Armadale Library.

STAY CONNECTED.

Staying connected is important for our mental health. Stay in contact with your family and friends through phone, social media or send them a hand written letter.

STAY POSITIVE

- What you say to yourself is important - take note of the things that you are saying and change negative comments into positive and realistic ones.
- Focus only on what you can control and always remember, this too shall pass.

Explore our backyard

Spending time outdoors isn't just great for your physical health, but mental health too. Nature immersion has been shown to help reduce stress and anxiety levels, lower blood pressure and improve your mood.

With public playgrounds, skate-parks and outdoor gym equipment currently closed, it can make finding time outside a little harder. Fortunately non-contact recreational activities like hiking and private picnics in the park are currently permitted and are a fantastic way to spend time outdoors.

With travel restrictions in place now is the perfect time to explore your own backyard and luckily the City of Armadale is surrounded by beautiful bush-land reserves with plenty of walk trails to discover.

Future flash facility for NOVELLI

Construction of the new $1.7 million pavilion in Piara Waters is taking shape. The facility located at Novelli Reserve, is stage two of the project and will complement the playing field constructed in December 2018.

Mayor Ruth Butterfield and Deputy Mayor Carole Frost were on site to see the erection of the tilt-panel concrete walls as they were stood up and braced - all in the space of one morning.

The sports pavilion will provide a hub for the new communities in our western suburbs, providing a multipurpose function room, kitchen/kiosk, unisex changes rooms and veranda overlooking the playing field.

This project is on schedule for completion early August.

WILLIAM SKEET RESERVE REDEVELOPMENT

Redevelopment of the William Skeet Reserve in Forrestdale is one step closer, following extensive community consultation the concept plans been given the green light by Council.

The facilities at William Skeet Reserve, along with those at the adjacent Alfred Skeet Reserve make up one of the City's most significant district level community and sporting hubs.

While the Forrestdale Hub is one of the City's older, established sites and is well used by the local community, it is also well positioned to assist in meeting the demand for recreational and broader community spaces being generated by emerging communities in the City's high growth areas.

The redevelopment of the buildings on William Skeet Reserve along with the upgrade to the playing surface and sports lighting will provide the community with excellent facilities for decades to come.

The $7.3 million staged project will include redevelopment of the existing facilities, community spaces for non-government service activities, multi-courts, skatepark and youth space, playgrounds and other spaces for families and young children, nature play areas, community art and car-parks.

The project is supported through the Community Sport and Recreation Facilities Fund (CSRFF) which is administered through the Department of Local Government, Sport and Cultural Industries, and Developer Contributions and City funds.

To be kept informed on the progress of the project, visit the City's website.

GWYNNE PARK YOUTH HUB RAMPS UP

If you're a skate fan then Gwynne Park is set to 'ramp up' as we commence work on replacing the existing skate facility at Gwynne Park, located on the corner of Townley and Forrester Roads, Armadale.

As a Council, we don't make decisions without first considering and talking to the people that may be affected by them. In December 2019, local skate enthusiasts and community members met with City of Armadale staff and the award winning skate park designers - Skate Sculpture, to collaborate on the design features they would like to see included.

The concept design offers a diverse mix of street and transition elements with space for beginner riders to hone their skills and intermediate riders to advance their abilities. The diversity of obstacles and back and forth flow will make the upgraded skate park ideal for hosting skills development workshops and competitions.

The $820,000 redevelopment will include elements such as a quarter-pipe with a bank extension providing a drop in section/turn around area; a 450mm level change where riders have the option of skating on an out ledge, a 'hubba' concrete ledge next to stairs and more.

The supporting amenities, which includes a shade structure, BBQ seating and picnic area, will create an enjoyable atmosphere for spectators as they watch the riders in awe and aspire to ride the park to the same level.

Localised
FOR OUR BUSINESSES

Armadale is full of amazing businesses, large and small, but too often people don't know what's out there.

Recently, the City launched its online business community platform – Localised. The platform will enable our emerging and established businesses to connect, share ideas and shape our City's future.

The online tool will enable business to connect with each other, share information and expert advice, hear from Council on local procurement opportunities, find and promote their services to other businesses as well as find information about businesses development opportunities, events and blogs.

For further information call the Economic Development Team on 9394 5000.

LOCAL
engagement

In an effort to increase the amount of opportunities and spend driven to the local economy, the City of Armadale now has access to the VendorPanel Marketplace platform.

VendorPanel Marketplace enables local suppliers to register their details on the VendorPanel platform, which then allows local government procurement officers to search for suppliers within a specific radius. This means that the City can target local businesses and support the local economy.

The platform will be up and running later this year and is entirely free for suppliers. As well as exposing small to medium enterprises to opportunities, it helps to improve processes and saves time in quotation management.

GENERATING ENERGY LOCALLY

Armadale's energy levels are rising, after being listed in the top-ten solar-friendly suburbs in the country! City of Armadale residents have been playing their part to embrace renewable energy in efforts to reduce carbon emissions and power bills.

The 2020 Clean Energy Australia Report listed Armadale in the top ten solar postcodes, with 9,358 installations in 2019. Bundaberg, Qld took out the top spot with 13,942.

Mayor Ruth Butterfield said the City of Armadale is proud of its role as a local government area and leader in renewable energy in Australia.

"Our residents have shown their commitment to a cleaner, greener future by investing in solar power energy, and are leading the way when it comes to the uptake in solar energy. The price of solar panels has come down over time and WA has loads of sunshine, it's fantastic our community is playing its part.

"To finish in the top-ten solar-friendly suburbs in Australia for a second year running is a great achievement and one we hope to continue."

The City is also playing its part with solar panels installed on the Administration Building, Depot, Armadale Arena and the Armadale Fitness and Aquatic Centre.

The Switch your thinking! Rewards for Residents program, also offers residents discounts on a variety of sustainable products including solar panels and battery storage.
